

Joey Wong clinches the IEM Gold Medal Award

Congratulations to Joey Wong Shen Yuong (Bachelor of Electrical and Electronics Engineering (Hons.), 2010) on being awarded the prestigious IEM Gold Medal. She received this award at IEM's 52nd Annual Dinner and Awards Night 16 April 2011 at Putrajaya Marriott Hotel and Spa. The IEM Gold Medal is awarded to the best final year engineering student in each of the local institution of higher learning, Joey is currently working as a Research Assistant in UNITEN. Joey says "It has been an honor and I am indeed blessed to receive this Gold Medal Award from the IEM council as it serves as recognition of my dedication towards excellence. Hence I would like to extend my gratitude to UNITEN and to all respectable people who helped mould me to what I am today. This gold medal award is not a catalyst for complacency but an encouragement for advancement in engineering know-how pursuit. I will continue to keep abreast of the engineering development and try all the best to contribute to a better engineering environment of tomorrow.

And to all my juniors....

You can also be one of the gold medalists in years to come, so do not hesitate to strive for it with great enthusiasm and devotion!"

The Institution of Engineers, Malaysia better known as the IEM is a professional learned society serving more than 16,000 members in Malaysia, overseas and the communities in, which they work. With a membership of close to 24,094 engineers, IEM is a qualifying body for professional engineers in Malaysia.
